Company salesman says:

'No flim-flam' involved in lower HNC ring bid

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

A representative of a Jackson high school ring supply company at a Saturday Hancock County School Board meeting said "no flim-flam" is involved in a $24 price reduction for individual senior class rings since last year.

For the first time at the recommendation of Board Member Louie Ladner, the board sought bids for the Hancock North Central High School 1984 senior class rings.

At the recommendation of Larry Hollis, a representative of R.N. Hendricks of Jackson, the board in a 3-1 vote opted to override its earlier decision at the meeting to take the quotes under advisement. The board accepted the apparent low bid submitted by the company.

Ladner was the only board member opposing the action and Monvel Cuevas, board president, did not attend the meeting.

Bids for individual rings include:

—Campus Supply Co. of Jackson at $170 for boys 10-karat-gold, $88 for boys metal alloy, $120 for girls gold and $85 for girls alloy;

—Jostins of Forrest at $163 for boys gold, $83 for boys alloy, $123 for girls gold and $81 for girls alloy;

—Hendricks at $156 for boys gold, $70 for boys alloy, $106 for girls gold and $69 for girls alloy.

Hollis explained the bids for the gold rings are each $24 lower than last year because the price of the precious metal has dropped. He also said the price of gold decreased Friday.

"There's never been any flim-flam so far as Herf-Jones is concerned," the sales representative stated.

Hendricks is a retailer for the Herf-Jones class ring line.

Hollis urged the board not to wait until its next meeting (Oct. 18) to decide which bid to select because the rings could not be delivered before Christmas.

He said, although the rings are for this year's junior class members (1984 graduates), that many parents give the rings as Christmas presents and the early order allows the school patrons to make monthly interest-free installments instead of a lump sum payment.

Ladner and Terrell Randolph, newly elected superintendent of education, both said they favored waiting until the next meeting so the board could study the quotations more closely and make a wise decision.

The bids also include prices for additional ring features.

Randolph stated, "Larry (Hollis) is a friend of mine, but I don't think waiting five or six days makes any difference."

Hollis said the rings would not arrive at HNC before Christmas unless the orders are placed before Oct. 10.

He also explained students normally need at least one week to discuss various options regarding the rings with parents.

Regarding written requests by parents asking the board to accept three children into Hancock schools from the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District, the board rejected two such appeals and directed Randolph to research the background of the youths.

A letter from one parent said her child was expelled from the Bay district in Sept. 1981.

Ladner said a child can not be expelled permanently and the youth should be able to attend Bay Schools after being out of school for more than one year.

Woodrow Ladner, board vice president, recommended that Randolph collect more information regarding circumstances of the transfer requests.

He also noted a child must first be officially released from one public school district to attend classes in another.

Louie Ladner told Randolph, "We should have reasons why a student is asking for a transfer and have all the information available to us at one time."

Woodrow Ladner stated, "If a kid's a holy terror, we don't want him in our school district."

Pearlington burglaries cleared

By ELLIS CUEVAS

A Saratoga, Fla. resident was arrested Wednesday by Mississippi State Trooper Curtis Newman and charged with possession of over one kilo of marijuana, according to Hancock Investigator Alvin Ladner.

Ladner said the charges stem from when Kenneth Cousins, 28, 3409 24th Circle, Saratoga, was spotted traveling in a improper lane and also parking improperly at the Hospitality Station.

Ladner said, "Trooper Newman found a suit case full of marijuana and the vehicle is being held at the Hancock sheriff's office."

"Cousins posted at $10,000 bond Saturday and has a preliminary hearing set before Justice Court Judge Lee Klein on Oct. 27," Ladner reported.

The case is being handled by Ladner and T.P. Naylor, senior investigator of the Coastal Bureau of the State Highway Patrol.

ARREST MADE IN BURGLARIES

A Slidell resident has been arrested in connection with three Pearlington burglaries, according to Delbert Seay, Hancock investigator.

Seay reports, "Jeremiah J. Smith, 33, Rt. 5, Box 311, Slidell, La. is lodged in the Hancock County jail in lieu of a $20,000 bond in connection with the recent burglary of the Woods Grocery and two Pearlington dwellings."

Smith was arrested on Friday by Seay with Hancock Deputies Dennis Tartavouille and Ronnie Cuevas assisting in the investigations.

Bay pharmacy owner arrested on drug charges

By ELLIS CUEVAS

The owner of a Bay St. Louis drug store and an Amite, La. resident were arrested Thursday night in connection with the sale of cocaine, according to Hancock County Sheriff Ronald Peterson.

Peterson said, "Alden L. (Bud) Moran, 39, P.O. Box 197, Waveland, Miss., owner of Quality Drug Store No. 2, Colonial Plaza, Bay St. Louis was arrested for the alleged sale of approximately one ounce of cocaine and 100 demoral tablets."

"The sale was made to a confidential informant at the drug store about three hours after regular closing. The informant purchased approximately one ounce of cocaine for $2,000 and the 100 demoral tablets for $700," Peterson stated.

Moran has been charged with the sale of cocaine and sale of demoral and is out on a $20,000 bond with a preliminary hearing scheduled before Justice Court Judge John Chevis on Oct. 27, police say.

The second person arrested is listed as Jimmy J. Capdeboscq, 39, P.O. Box 175, Amite. He is charged with conspiracy to sell cocaine and has another charge pending on the possibility of possession of cocaine, Peterson said.

"Capdeboscq was arrested after the surveillance as it was determined he was the one who allegedly brought the cocaine to Moran. He was followed by officers to US-90 and Dunbar Avenue, where he was stopped and arrested. His car, a 1980 Firebird was seized by police and brought to the sheriff's office. A search warrant for the car was secured from Judge Chevis, and during the search, a brief case was found containing approximately one quarter ounce of cocaine," Peterson allowed.

Capdeboscq's bond was set at $10,000. He awaits a preliminary hearing before Judge Chevis.

The drug store was surrounded by sheriff's officers, Highway Patrol investigators, U.S. Customs officers and Waveland investigators prior to the sale and as the informant who was wired for sound left the store, officers moved into the store Peterson reports.

When officers moved in on Moran's Drug Store and he was arrested, he reportedly had $2,000 in marked bills in one pocket and $700 in bills in his other pocket, police stated.

Peterson says the investigation was initiated by his department. Hancock Investigators Alvin Ladner and Delbert Seay, and Joe Price, chief of criminal investigation for the Southern District, Mississippi State Highway Patrol are handling the case.

Power company to appeal rate increase rejection

Mississippi Power Company plans to appeal a Friday ruling by the Public Service Commission which denied the electric company a $21.9 million rate increase.

As a result, the rate increase already being paid by customers will remain in effect under bond, subject to refund and interest, during the appeal process.

Donald Dana, public relations manager with the power company said Saturday that the company will appeal the ruling Monday or Tuesday.

"As soon as attorney's complete preparation of the necessary documents," he said.

The order issued by the Public Service Commission Friday stated the $21,901,000 increase requested by Mississippi Power "is unreasonable, unlawful and unjustified. It constitutes an undue and unfair burden on the company's customers and shall not be allowed by this commission."

Under the new rates which have been collected since May, a customer using 1,000 kilowatt-hours is paying $61.50. Under the old rates that same customer would pay $59.

Mississippi Power Company President Alan Barton announced Saturday that Mississippi Power Company "has no choice but to appeal Friday's decision of the Public Service...to the Chancery Court of Hinds County."

Barton noted the PSC has denied the power company four increases since 1971. Each time the power company has appealed the decision and won.

Barton noted, "In the other three

HGH officials mum on Waveland location

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

A spokesman at Hancock General Hospital in Bay St. Louis Friday could not confirm or deny a report that the hospital's board of trustees is eyeing property in Waveland for a new facility.

The board's long-range planning committee is now studying possible sites for a new 100-bed hospital.

Residents in Waveland report the hospital committee is giving prime consideration to building the new facility on property at the corner of Old Spanish Trail and Nicholson Avenue in that city.

Also, in recent months several surrounding property owners have received variances from the Waveland Planning and Zoning Commission and the City Board of Aldermen for limited commercial use of the land.

Mary Perkins, hospital public relations head, Friday stated, "As far as I know the committee is looking at sites, but I don't know if they are looking at this site (in Waveland) or not."

She noted the committee recently met in an executive session with the board to discuss a possible site, but nothing discussed in the secret meeting was publicly revealed.

Hospital boards are exempt from the state's Open Meetings Law which requires most governmental bodies to meet publicly.

The general public and press are barred from attending executive sessions.

GRIM TASK—Hancock County Sheriff Ronald Peterson, walks towards his car after getting information from Dean Naquin about the possible drowning his buddy Vincent Morvant, 23, 1707 East, Thibodaux, La. Saturday afternoon in a 'blue hole' off I-10 and between Hwy. 607. Peterson said Norvant and Naquin had camped over night at the hole and both were swimming when the drowning occurred. The accident was reported by Naquin at 1:10 p.m. as he telephoned the sheriff's office from Woods Grocery in Pearlington. Several boats were brought in to the pond which was reportedly 35 foot deep by a bystander in the area where Morvant reportedly went down. The pond was apparently created when fill was taken from it for the I-10 construction. Late Saturday a search continued for the body. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas).

Federal grant approved for airport

By BRENT MACEY

A $200,000 federal grant to Hancock County for construction of an apron at Stennis International Airport "couldn't have come at a better time," a commissioner on the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission said Friday at a commission meeting.

The grant, which had been sought by the commission since 1978, was approved this week by the Federal Aviation Administration and was accepted readily by the Hancock County Board of Supervisors at a supervisor meeting Thursday morning.

Commission members hope the money will enable a 250 foot by 300 foot apron to be constructed south of the existing apron at the airport.

Commissioner Dave McDonald noted the grant has "changed the ball game completely" in terms of the commission's previous thoughts of building a much smaller apron with local funds.

"It couldn't have come at a better time," he said.

Speaking on behalf of an airport committee established several months ago to study expansion needs at Stennis, McDonald noted the committee had agreed that a new hangar building would have to be constructed at the airport in the near future.

But a money problem would have forced construction of an apron outside that hangar to be much smaller than the one which commission now feels it can build.

"Now we'll be able to build the hangar...maybe two," McDonald said.

The new hangar, expected to be some 10,000 square feet, will more than double the storage area that currently exists at the airport.

McDonald said the airport currently can accommodate 25 airplanes. But with the addition of a new hangar and apron, that number can be increased to 60 or 65.

Construction on both the apron and hangar may begin as soon as the early part of next year, McDonald said, noting an engineer will have to be hired to design the apron and hangar, the job must be bid, and the entire project approved by both the FAA and the Board of Supervisors.

In reference to cost of constructing the new hangar, McDonald told the commission that the airport committee is considering having Andy Ewing, fixed base operator at the airport, pay rent to the commission equivalent to the principal plus interest on a loan for 15 years.

Both Ewing and the Airport Committee have agreed to these terms McDonald said.

Commission Executive Director Wilson Webre estimated that a new hangar may cost $100,000.

The federal grant may also help the commission to resolve a problem concerning storage of a National Aeronautics and Space Administration plane at Stennis.

NASA has been requesting Stennis to expand its hangar space to accommodate its plane.

The commission agreed Thursday it would inform NASA officials of the grant and explain that steps are being taken to remedy that problem.

Also at the meeting the commission retroactively declared a train derailment at Port Bienville Industrial Park last week an emergency and agreed to pay Claude Green $1,440 for repairing the track, and placing the engine back on line.

Commissioner Victor Franckiewicz noted the commission was lucky the engine was not pulling any cars at the time of the accident.

Woody Stieffell, engineering coordinator with the commission, said the train engineer apparently did not see a sign showing the track was switched or was going too fast.

He noted Green installed a device on the switch to prevent accidents from happening again.

CUPBOARD DESK

The furniture pictured is most often called a secretary, but others refer to it as a cupboard desk. This designation sets it aside from those which are much taller, often with a fourth drawer and glass or solid doors in front of three or more shelves. The turned legs are Sheraton inspired, early 19th century, but we know this form was made as late as the 1850s. Most will be found with pine bodies covered with mahogany veneer, if made after about 1830. In Northern New England, they appear in this period with birch or maple bodies, and possibly mahogany veneer on the drawers. Basically, they were an inexpensive desk, made with woods native to the area where the cabinetmakers lived. However, the years between about 1830 and 1850 witnessed a rise in interest in mahogany furniture. Much in Empire and Victorian style was made from it. Since the wood was expensive in rural areas, cabinetmakers resorted to use of the readily available veneer. The molding around the top is very Empire styled and in keeping with the 1830-50 period. The heavy legs would identify this as New York, New Jersey or Pennsylvania in origin - its proportions add to the feeling that it is not New England.

The glass doors are uninspired as they are simple rectangular panes, rather than the Gothic arch and often pieced work which are much more graceful. The Chippendale wing brasses with bale handles are strictly out of place on this desk as they belong on furniture of a century before. We are happy to see that all four legs are alike as this is paramount in furniture. One can be amazed at how much early furniture features legs in the rear different from those in the front.

Hancock Health Dept. offering flu vaccine

Flu vaccines will be available at the Hancock County Board of Health office starting Monday, according to Inez Pope, office manager.

The flu shots will be administered on Mondays from 1-4 p.m. and Thursdays from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. and from 1-4 p.m.

The shots are recommended for the chronically ill and those 65 or older and to the general public.

Since no federal or state funds are available this year to provide free flu vaccine, the program will again be offered for a nominal fee.

Vaccine recipients must pay a $3 charge to cover the cost of the vaccine and administration.

The only exceptions to the charge will be active tuberculosis cases and cystic fibrosis patients.

Immunizations will be available to the general population with no age restrictions, but public health officials emphasize that people in the "high risk" groups should take advantage of the availability of the vaccine.

High risk groups include those 65 of age and older and people of any age with heart trouble, lung diseases, kidney diseases, diabetes, anemia, and other chronic illness.

"Even though no state funds are available to pay for vaccine and its administration, the State Department of Health is still responsible for making every effort to provide for vaccine-preventable diseases," said State Health Officer Dr. Alton B. Cobb.

"As a public health agency, we feel responsible for helping protect Mississippi people from illness and deaths associated with influenza."

Vaccine for the 1982 flu season provides protection from the current prevalent strains of influenza (A/Brazil/78, A/Bangkok/79, and B/Singapore/79).

Persons 13 years of age and older will require only one dose of the vaccine, while those under 13 years should get two doses unless they have received flu shots within the past five years.

Health officials have not predicted the severity of the 1982-1983 flu season. The season usually includes October through April, with the number of cases peaking in late January and early February.

Bits 'n pieces

The professional football strike has left little for many folks to do on Sundays.

Today would probably be a good day for them to visit the Nacaise Crossing Gumbo Festival.

Festivities on the final day kick-off at 10 a.m. this morning begins with the 8th annual Little Miss Pageant followed by a full day of activities.

Many of the residents of White Cypress in addition to others from the surrounding areas have been working for sometime in preparation for this gumbo festival, and the proceeds are going to a worthy cause.

While on the subject of Canadian football, there seems to be many folks who have the same feelings as we do. All we are able to observe is a lot of motion and are looking for the officials to throw a flag.

The Canadian rules are different, that is for sure, and we have never, as the saying goes 'gotten into the groove' in viewing their style of play.

The members of both Bay High and St. Stanislaus Junior High football squads should be commended for their sportsmanship displayed Thursday night.

We know both teams wanted to win, but that did not deter level heads, and all players acted like gentlemen.

While on the subject of football, it will be Homecoming for both Bay High and St. Stanislaus this coming Friday.

It is beyond our realm of imagination as to why the officials of both schools could not get together and workout a schedule where both are not having homecoming on the same night in Bay St. Louis.

We have been told by a representative of one of the school's they have made efforts, but to no avail.

It is too late for this year, but, come on guys, try for next year.

In these small communities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland there are many folks who would like to see both football teams play, especially at homecoming.

There has been a lot of speculation as to how long Main Street will be under repair.

Some guess the work will be completed by Christmas, while others say never before Christmas 1983.

There is one thing we do know for sure, and that is if you are going to do the improvements now, it can only be done by making a mess.

The work by the city employees is about complete with the removal of the remainder of the street and sidewalks yet to come by a contractor.

It has been really dusty and the watering down on occasions by the Bay Fire Department has really been appreciated by many folks.

The replacing of the many broken areas along Beach Boulevard sure has been a blessing for motorists.

It is a great improvement because we were wondering at one time if the road would ever be repaired.

We hope our Board of Supervisors will be able to secure more funds in order to complete the whole project.

We know the folks going to Buccaneer State Park are glad the road has been repaired.

It is amazing as to how many visitors go to our local State Park.

The park has helped many of our small businesses as well as large ones with the visitors to our area.

Greg Smith, you and your staff are doing a fine job.

BE A GOOD CITIZEN.

Wouldn't it be nice to have a clean city for our children to grow up in? Children learn by example, teach your child not to litter.

Hanging apparatus is mute testimony to obsolescence of Hancock County Jail

Editor
Sea Coast Echo

Dear Sir,
Just beyond my cell door is a large steel ring set into the concrete ceiling of the second floor of the Hancock County Jail.

Below the ring on the floor is a trap door (now concealed from the top by floor tile).

The condemned man was kept in a small cell only inches from the trap door. The device allowed its victim to fall through the floor and into the downstairs lobby for the awaiting spectators.

Bay citizen demands public report of City Council investigation of police department

Sea Coast Echo
To the Editor

Dear Sir,
In accord with the statements of Mrs. Catherine Wimbish, it does seem rather unusual that we have had no press release on the findings of the investigation into our police department.

It was stated by our councilmen about nine months ago that there would be an in-depth investigation of our police department.

As of today, the department is still under a cloud of suspicion of wrongdoing with no explanation.

A few months ago a military base in our area was under a similar investigation. This base, housing thousands of people, went through their investigation and completed with a press release.

Harrison Humane Society director reports observance of 'Adopt A Dog Month' in October

Editor
Sea Coast Echo

Dear Sir,
At the Harrison County Humane Society dog days will fall in October this year, for October has been officially tagged 'Adopt-A-Dog Month.'

Throughout the month the Humane Society will work to match many dogs and puppies with loving masters. A "dog's life" is forced on many a canine: The American Humane Association estimates that more than 13 million dogs are left homeless each year. While dogs provide companionship in over half the nation's households, that is the said "tail" to tell about America's favorite pet, and "man's best friend."

The Harrison County Humane Society is one of more than 750 shelters nationwide that hopes to change those numbers through the Adopt-A-Dog program.

Also, the American Humane Association hopes to encourage dog lovers to consider adopting a dog from the many fine animals available from shelters such as ours.

We have a number of lovable and healthy dogs waiting to be placed in good homes.

They range in size, personality and looks such as Bear, a Lab-Dane mix, Bandit, a Sheepdog mix, Lucky and

Shoreline resident refutes letter critical of Congressman Trent Lott

Sept. 27, 1982
Bay St. Louis, Miss.

Dear Editor,

In the August 29 issue of The Sea Coast Echo there was a letter to the editor from Mr. James Aultman of Hattiesburg severely criticizing Congressman Trent Lott, suggesting that the congressman has become so ambitious for personal fame on a national level that he has outgrown his usefulness to the common people who elected him to office.

Mr. Aultman, my husband and I are two of those common people of whom you ask the question, "Have you ever been able to talk to the congressman himself?"

Yes, Mr. Aultman, I have talked to Congressman Lott on several occasions. When I have called and he wasn't in his office, he has always returned my call, on one occasion at 11 o'clock at night.

Of course, he has an office staff to address the things he cannot handle personally.

Do you expect your doctor to sit down and send you a handwritten bill, or do you expect his office staff to do it for him?

If you don't, then why do you expect if of your congressman?

And why are you blaming all the congressional ills on Mr. Lott?

He doesn't run the Social Security Administration nor the Veterans Administration. He is just one congressman and there's only so much he can do.

Yes, Mr. Aultman, you were so right when you said that Mr. Lott is a very bright, eager, intelligent, capable, and ambitious young man who, may I add, is serving his congressional district very well indeed.

He is a fine representative making an even finer impression in Washington.

Last but not least, Mr. Aultman, I asked for and received an appointment with Congressman Lott on August 17 past. We were made welcome by his very courteous office staff, and were treated like VIPs by the congressman himself.

Mr. Lott listened to our problem and assured us he would do everything he could to help us.

What more could we ask? Shame on you, Mr. Aultman, for criticizing someone you've never met or even spoken with.

Congressman Lott is going to be at the home of Dr. Andrew Martinovich in Bay St. Louis for a party fund-raising event Oct. 16.

It's on a Saturday and we don't have to work, so let's all go out and welcome him to Hancock County and show him our appreciation for a job well done.

Sincerely,
Mrs. John D. Murphy

Congress violates the Constitution by failure to reapportion itself

Editor
The Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Editor:

We elect our congressmen on the basis of party affiliation or worse, on their ability to tell us what we want to hear at election time.

It appears that we reward these best speakers by sending them to Washington to become independent power brokers. They in turn reward a select few supporters back home by hiring them to keep the homefolks off their backs.

Statistics have shown, repeatedly, that one good lobbyist has more influence with a congressman than ALL the voters back in the home district.

The entire lobbying system implies, wrongfully we hope, that Congressional votes can be bought.

Why should anyone who does not reside, own property or do the principal part of their business in a congressman's home district want to contribute to his campaign fund?

Especially when that congressman was elected to represent only a certain number of people within clearly defined geographical boundaries.

If each congressman represented no more than 200-250 thousand people he would be more responsive and accessible to the voters back home.

The originators of our Constitution never intended one person in the House to represent the approximately 530,000 people that each represents today. When the Constitution was written in 1787 we had 65 representatives serving 3.5 million people. One for each 53,850 people.

The intended size of a Congressional district and constituency is more clearly defined by the fact that, after the first census of 1790 showed a population of 3.93 million people, the House reapportioned itself at 106 members. One Representative for each 37,650 people.

The number of Representatives today, 435, was established in 1912 based on a 1910 census count of 91.97 million people.

The House did not reapportion itself after the 1920 census as is required by the Constitution but, in 1929 arbitrarily, and probably unconstitutionally, permanently fixing the number of its members at 435.

Today, with a population of 230 million people, we still have only 435 representatives. We no longer reapportion congressmen among the people as is required by the Constitution, we now reapportion the people among the congressmen.

One argument has been that Congress would be too big and costly to support if the number of representatives was increased. We don't seem to have a problem providing and supporting a meeting place in New York for representatives and staffs of every government in the world: The United Nations. Are we obliged to do more for the rest of the world than for our own?

By increasing the number of representatives as is required by the Constitution you risk the potential risk and opportunity of inadvertently trading off your interest for that of a lobbyist or Political Action Committee by making them answerable to every voter in their district.

Big government is not the Congress. Big government is the bureaucracy which Congress has created and over which it has lost control.

If Congress built it, Congress can tear it down. The only way to change these conditions is for the people to regain control of Congress in the manner clearly defined in the Constitution.

Force Congress to reapportion itself.
Respectfully Yours,
James A. Aultman

CHAMBER STUDENT DIRECTORS—The students directors for the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce for the school year of 1982-83 are from left, Clifford Pace, Bay Senior High; Kelly Cremer, Trinity Christian Academy; Eddie Belcher, Coast Episcopal; Elizabeth Merrittfield, Our Lady's Academy; and Stanley Williams, St. Stanislaus. The students met Monday with Dick Kosbab, chamber director and education chairman and Clarice Gustin, executive director, who welcomed the group and explained many of the functions of the chamber.

Bridgett Carver, Hancock North Central joined the other five as they all attended the regular meeting of the chamber on Tuesday evening. We feel these representatives who have been selected by their respective schools will be a tremendous asset to the Hancock Chamber of Commerce this coming year. It is good to know our young people are as concerned with our community because they will be the leaders of tomorrow. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas).

cases the courts on appeal have awarded the company the full amount sought after ruling that the commission's decisions were contrary to the overwhelming weight of the evidence.

The company president lashed the PSC, claiming, "The PSC once again has acted unwisely and contrary to the evidence presented during public hearings by its own staff and by Mississippi Power Company."

"We are shocked and disappointed by this decision because the testimony clearly established our need for rate relief. No one including the commission's own expert witnesses supported a zero order (an order which denied the entire request). By state law, the commission must base its decision on the evidence. This apparently was not done," he lamented.

"This zero order underscores the need for, and the wisdom of, the bonding provision in our state law which protects utilities and their customers from unwise, unfair, and unsupported rulings such as the one issued Friday," Barton claimed.

"Rulings which if unguarded by the bonding provision could seriously jeopardize the reliability and availability of an adequate electric power supply for the service area. The law further protects the consumer by requiring a refund with substantial interest on any portion of a rate increase not approved by the courts."

Trustees observing Higher Education Week

Oct. 3-9 is National Higher Education Week.

The Board of Trustees of State Institutions of Higher Learning has approved plans for activities that will emphasize the importance and value of education and will increase the awareness and appreciation of higher education opportunities in the state.

Activities will center on the theme "Mississippi's Future is Mindpower."

The highlight of the week will be a Higher Education and Secondary Education Partnership Conference at the Coliseum Ramada Inn in Jackson on Wednesday.

The conference will address the specific problems of math and science education, and approximately 300 people are expected to attend.

Board members, school superintendents, junior college presidents, State Department of Education officials, university officials, and school board chairmen will be among those participating.

Governor William Winter will deliver the keynote speech at the noon luncheon meeting during the conference.

On Thursday the Mississippi Authority for Educational Television will present a program at 7:30 p.m. featuring a panel discussion on higher education.

Governor Winter, Board President Dr. Robert W. Harrison Jr. of Yazoo City, Dr. John R. Lovelace of Batesville, Board vice-president, and Dr. E. E. Thrash, executive secretary and director of the Board, will serve as panel members. Howard Lett of Jackson will moderate the hour long program.

Also planned during Higher Education Week is the announcement of plans for a Higher Education Essay Contest to be held for high school students. First place winner in the contest will be awarded a $1,000 scholarship to be used at one of the eight universities in the state.

Contest details will be released in October.

Tigers blast Rocks 28-0

By BRENT MACEY

The Bay High School Tiger varsity football team streaked by St. Stanislaus Friday in the Rock-A-Chaw home stadium 28-0.

The game testified to numerous mistakes by the Tigers and the Rocks, notably the Tigers in the first quarter, where the Bay High eleven exhibited the sloppiest play they have shown all season.

Head Coach Snuffy Smith attributed most of the total 140 yards of Tiger penalties to nerves.

"I think they were too keyed up and over excited because of the rival game," he said.

He noted the Tigers gave the Rocks several key first downs on penalties and almost set up the Rock-A-Chaws for a touchdown in the first quarter.

The Tigers first score of the game was the result of a Rock-A-Chaw fumble in the first quarter.

A St. Stanislaus player could not handle a Tiger punt and the Bay's Doug Dickinson came up with the ball on the Rock nine yard line.

Tiger tightend Michael Lewis scored his first of two touchdowns for the evening on the next play, sweeping right around the St. Stanislaus defense into the endzone.

The point after attempt by Mark Davis, the first of four he would kick successfully Friday night, made the score 7-0.

On the following kickoff the Rocks came close to scoring. A roughing the kicker call against the Tigers moved the ball to the Stanislaus 28 yard line. The Rocks then pushed up to the midfield marker on a well executed pass play between Rock quarterback Matt Scardino and receiver Joby LaBruzzo.

A passing interference call against the Tigers then moved the Rocks into good field position on the Bay High 28.

But the Tigers held the Rocks for three downs and a St. Stanislaus field goal attempt on fourth down was blocked by Tiger Charles Hawkins.

Neither team could move the ball successfully for the remainder of the first half and the score remained 7-0.

In the second quarter the Tigers began to roll more effectively and show the type of play that has earned them a three-way tie for the number one team in the Deep South Conference.

Bay High's Darren Smith intercepted a Stanislaus pass, his second interception of the season, on the Stanislaus 25 yard line. Tiger quarterback David McIver capped a five play scoring drive to take the ball over the middle from the five yard line.

Other Tiger scores came in the third quarter on a two yard run by Tiger Michael Proulx.

The final score of the evening again followed a pass interception by the Tigers. This time Michael Lewis came up the ball on near the mid field marker. Lewis then carried from 13 yards out for the final touchdown of the game and his second for the evening.

Hornets sting Hawks in double overtime

By EDGAR PEREZ

Hancock's Hawks failed to cash in on a spectacular opening kickoff return for a touchdown and a valiant fourth quarter goal line stand Friday night in Hurley where they were stung in double overtime by East Central's Hornets, 20-17.

Crunching defensive play by both teams resulted in a 7-7 knotted ball game at the end of four quarters.

The fleet-footed Lydell Curry took the home team's opening boot at about his own 20, saw daylight through the Hornet swarm, and went all the way.

A Bobby Beech kick was good to give the Hawk's a seven point edge just 15 seconds into the contest.

The Jackson County group registered its regulation touchdown with 3:36 left in the first half.

Hornet cornerback Byron Wells picked off a Mark Santalla pass which slipped by Hawk receiver Cedric Goff at the East Central 40 and opened the scoring drive by carrying the interception to the HNC 45.

Wells contributed additional eight and 20-yard carries during the drive.

Hawk linemen Mike Bilbo, Danny Foy and Steve McQueen stalled the drive, but the Hornets managed to push the pigskin over from the six after seven tries.

Chris Craft's kick was good to lock up the scoring until overtime set in.

The Hawks suffered offensively as a result of other costly turnovers, including Hornet interception of a blocked screen pass and recovery of a bobbled snap from center, both in the first period.

Hancock was struggling to regain its lead with one second left in the half when a Santalla bomb to a tripple-covered Goff was intercepted in the end zone.

The Hawks threatened again midway into the third period when 14 and 15 yard runs by Santalla, a Santalla to Curry pass for eight, a Dennis Lacoste plunge for nine and a Curry sprint for seven contributed to a visitor first and ten at the Hornet nine.

But the advantage was lost when the Hornets successfully scrambled for a lose ball.

Wells covered more than 50 yards in five carries for the Hornets, leading a 15-play drive from their own nine to the HNC two where Bobby Beech nailed Wells for a one-yard loss on fourth down.

Another Hawk possible fizzled in the closing minutes of the forth period after a 15 yard dash by Curry was called back on a motion infraction and the Hornets picked off a Santalla aerial at the East Central 40.

Hancock won the first overtime toss and elected to defend, giving the Hornets four tries at a score from 10 yards out.

Hornet quarterback Ricky Jackson picked up three yards on a keeper before fullback

Scott Shirley scored from the seven on second down.

Craft's PAT kick was good, putting the Hornets ahead 14-7.

Curry lost five yards on the Hawks first try before Santalla handed off to Goff who pushed the ball down to the two-yard-line.

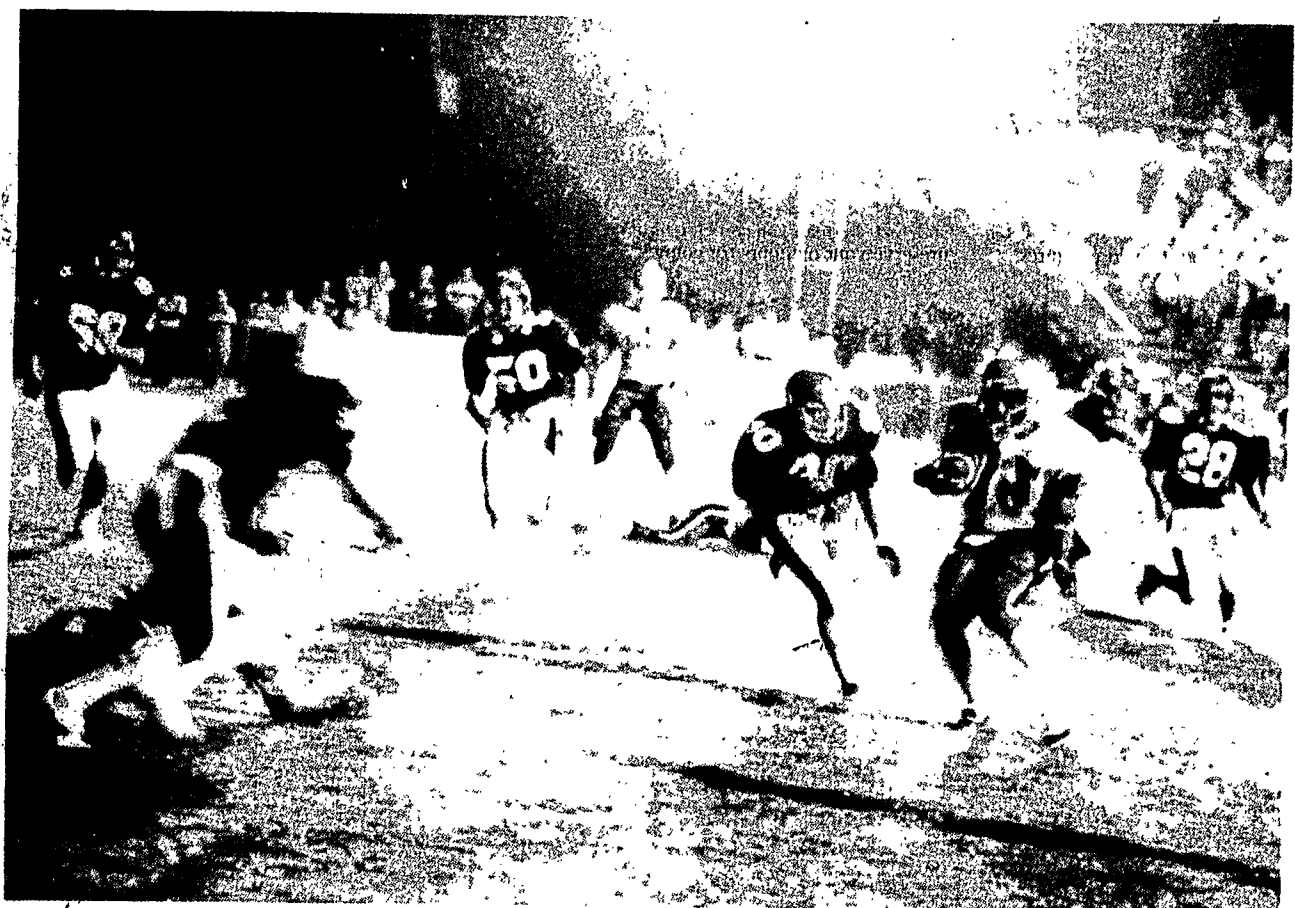

Lacoste hit a solid wall on a third down plunge to the one, before Santalla made it into paydirt on a keeper.

With an option to win, lose or tie, the Hawks elected to kick, sending the game into double overtime at 14-all.

Hancock was first on offense and Curry picked up two on the first try and one more yard on second down.

Santalla recovered his own fumble on the third down play, giving the Hawks fourth and eleven.

Beech posted three points from the 16, giving the Hawks a 17-14 edge, but Shirley got loose on the Hornets' first shot, sealing the situation to the Hornet's favor, 20-17.

CLOSING IN ON CURRY—East Central Hornet defenders close in on Hancock's Lydell Curry (32) in overtime action in Hurley Friday night. The Hornet defense keyed in on Curry throughout the game after he took the opening kickoff around his own 20-yard-line and scampered all the way to put the Hawks on the score board in the first few seconds. Bobby Beech kicked the PAT, with those seven points good enough to take the Hawks into double overtime. Curry was shaken up and had to leave the field twice in the third quarter. (Echo staff photo by Edgar Perez)

Pirates mauled by Cats

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

The Pass Christian High School Pirates were shut out by the Stone County High School Tomcats Friday night, 18-0.

Although the Pirates lost their home contest, the Pass defense held back two Tomcat scoring drives in the first quarter and another just before end of the first half.

Also, Stone was unsuccessful in all point conversion attempts.

But about midway in that period Stone broke free of the Pirate defensive grasp by executing plays swiftly and deftly.

The Tomcats regained ball possession on the 50-yard-line. Halfback Rob Harris ran left to the Pirate 33 and in the following play Halfback Steve Hartfield bulled his way through a host of Pass defenders to score.

The Stone PAT was no good which set the first half score of 6-0.

Early in the second half, a Pirate fumble recovered by Harris marked which team would dominate the rest of the game.

HNC 5&6ers best Boosters

Hancock North Central's Fifth and Sixth Grade Football Team defeated the Pearlington Boosters 12-8 Tuesday night in Pearlington.

Hawk Chip Smith put his squad on the scoreboard first with a 10-yard touchdown run in the first period.

Booster Van Autry thwarted the Hawks attempt for two points.

Also in the first half, Pearlington's Rickey Boyet connected on a 15-yard aerial to Jesse Ellis, setting up a Bobby Lewis touchdown run on the next play.

Doodle Doyle posted two for the Boosters, giving the home team an 8-6 lead at the half. Pearlington's Shawn Powell recovered a Hawk fumble late in the second period.

Smith saved the ball game for the Hawks in the third period when he scored his second touchdown, closing out the scoring for the evening at 12-8, Hawks.

Booster players of the week chosen by Pearlington coaches Al Walsh, Kenny Walsh and Jesse Woods are Jesse Ellis and Bobby Lewis.

The Pearlington coaches treated their players to a spaghetti supper at Jerry's Restaurant on Hwy. 604.

The Boosters meet Bay Junior High in Pearlington at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday.

FISHIN' TIPS

from ... Tom Mann

OL' BRER TOM is proud to have served as a conservation officer in my younger years, and one of the more enjoyable aspects of the job was helping others to understand better and more deeply enjoy the outdoors and its wild creatures.

One of the less enjoyable involvements of the laws protecting our wild creatures, such as poachers who spotlight game at night, hunt during the closed season, or take more than the law allows.

With so many more hunters and fishermen per acre of land and water today than we had "back then" it is even more important that scofflaws, and greedy cusses who take more than the allowable limits, be eliminated.

But, as I quickly learned, one conservation officer has to cover a heap of territory and despite total effort on his part, even working around the clock, he needs help. Your help. That's right, as a hunter and/or fisherman you can help him preserve your outdoors for coming generations.

Many states have "violation alert" programs where you phone in the name, or license number, of a violator. You do not get involved because you are assigned a code number, your name is not necessary, just the tipoff. So, get involved, help protect our wildlife!

REMEMBER: Wild creatures have no words, so they can't talk. You can speak for them. And, in so doing you are helping preserve the outdoors for those to follow. It's a trust we all should share.

With 58 seconds left in the third quarter, Tomcat Quarterback Anthony Harris scampered in for the second game TD, but a two-point conversion attempt by Tight End Heath Stephens was stopped by Pirate defenders.

Early in the fourth period a short pass by Pirate Quarterback Jamie Jenkins intended for Split End Ramone Henderson was intercepted by Harris on the Pass 48-yard-line.

In four plays the Tomcats marched to the Pirate five where Halfback Mark Crookrum literally dove over the middle of the Pirate line to set the game score of 18-10.

Game statistics show Stone earning 14 first downs and the Pass chalked up four.

The Tomcats rushed a whopping 377 yards in 47 carries compared to the Pirates 61 rushing yards in 20 carries.

Both teams bombed out in the passing statistics with five yards each.

The Tomcats passed nine times, completed one and threw one interception. Pass Christian hurled the ball 16 times, but only completed two passes and one interception was thrown.

Stone punted twice averaging 30 yards.

The Pirates punted the ball eight times averaging 32 yards.

The Tomcats fumbled once and lost the ball.

The Pass fumbled three times, but lost the pigskin only once.

Stone was penalized seven times losing 95 yards.

Pass Christian was penalized four times for 50 yards.

Bay Junior High Tigers defeats Stanislaus 24-0

By ELLIS CUEVAS
The Bay Junior High School football team defeated St. Stanislaus 24-0 Thursday night in a game played at the Bay Junior High Stadium.

The first score of the game came late in the first quarter when Jeffrey Smith moved to his left after a hand-off from Quarterback Jeffrey Smith and threw a 45 yard pass to Matt Fairconnetue for a 60 yard scoring play. Fairconnetue came down with ball which was well defended by Stanislaus. Another two point conversion was added by Lewis.

Head Coach Cleveland Williams was proud of the Tiger performance saying, "Our offense moved the ball on the ground as well as in the air throughout the contest due mainly to the fine offensive play of linemen Stace and Trace McRaney, Patrick Whavers, Joe Summers, Todd Mannon, and J.J. Roberts.

Afternoon ceremony unites Ladner, Klein

St. John Catholic Church was the setting for the September 25 marriage of Cindy Ann Klein and Terrell Edward Ladner.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. John A. Klein of Clermont Harbor. The groom is the son of Mrs. Josephine Ladner, also of Clermont Harbor.

Rev. Lambert Stack officiated at the 1 p.m. double ring ceremony. Standing baskets of white gladioli, blue asters and blue stock with satin ribbon bows decorated the sanctuary.

Musical selections were provided by Mrs. Bobby Schubert of Bay St. Louis.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of white chantilly lace fashioned with Queen Anne neckline outlined with re-embroidered lace, long tapered sleeves with calla points, fitted bodice and full bouffant skirt which extended to a semi-cathedral train. Her headpiece of pearl embroidered chantilly lace held a fingertip veil of illusion bordered with lace.

She carried a cascade of white silk roses with blue sweetheart roses and baby's breath.

Kathleen Ladner of Clermont Harbor, cousin of the bride, was matron of honor.

Bridesmaids were Claudia Lang of Clermont Harbor, aunt of the bride and Melissa Bradford of Waveland, niece of the groom.

The attendants were identically attired in formal gowns of crystal pleated silesta in sky blue with capelet collars of lace. They wore matching hats decorated with silk roses and ribbon and carried cascade bouquets of blue silk roses and baby's breath.

Kelly Marie Ladner of Clermont Harbor, cousin of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a pale blue chiffon hoop skirted dress trimmed in white chantilly lace and satin bows. She carried a white basket filled with blue silk roses, baby's breath and greenery and wore a headband of matching flowers.

Jimmy Strong Jr. of Bay St. Louis served as ring bearer.

John A. Klein Jr. of Clermont Harbor, brother of the bride, was best man. Groomsmen were Kent Selier, cousin of the bride, and Roy Ladner, brother of the groom, both of Clermont Harbor.

Michael Lang of Clermont Harbor, uncle of the bride, and Jimmy Strong of Bay St.

Louis, brother-in-law of the groom, were ushers.

The bride's mother chose for the occasion a formal gown of French blue silesta, featuring crystal pleated skirt, chiffon capelet sleeves and scalloped lace overlay on the bodice. A corsage of cream colored roses completed her ensemble.

The mother of the groom was attired in an aqua blue two-tone gown fashioned with V-neckline, blouson styling with waistline sash and sleeveless lace-trimmed jacket. She wore a corsage of cream colored roses.

The bride's table held a four tiered, scalloped bottom wedding cake decorated with sugar spun roses and pale blue lace, topped with blue and white bells and doves, and flanked by silver candelabra. Baskets of blue and white silk blossoms formed the background.

Lynn Folse, cousin of the bride, assisted at the reception.

For traveling, the bride chose a teal blue dress of polyester crepe, featuring tulip sleeves and diagonal overlay on the bodice, beige accessories and a corsage of cream roses.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. William Pierce and daughter, Sheri, of Gretna, La.; Mr. and Mrs. Louis Foret, Mrs. Ruby Lohman and daughter Judy Butler and Philip Anselmo all of New Orleans.

Contestants sought in Mrs. Mississippi Pageant

The Mrs. Mississippi-America Pageant, official preliminary to the national Mrs. America Pageant, is currently accepting applications for the 1983 Pageant, in a search for Mississippi's most beautiful married woman.

Now in its seventh year, The Mrs. America Pageant was created to recognize the one person most discriminated against in all major beauty competitions — America's married woman. As the only major beauty pageant exclusively devoted to our country's 52 million wives, it not only serves as a showcase for many of America's beautiful women, but it also focuses national attention on the versatility of the contemporary American wife.

The first Mrs. America Pageant, designated to choose the ideal American homemaker, was held in 1938 at the Palisades Amusement Park in New Jersey and lasted for three decades before being discontinued in 1968. In 1977, David Z. Marmel formed a new organization and established a glamorous new beauty format for Mrs. America.

The Las Vegas Hilton has been the Pageant's home since then, where the finals take place in the Hilton Main Showroom.

Co-hosting the 1982 Mrs. America Pageant telecast to a nationwide syndicated audience were Bobby Vinton and Vikki Carr. Prizes for the 1983 Mrs. America winner will include cash, a personal appearance contract, television appearances and a year of travel and excitement.

Among the prizes which Mrs. Mississippi 1983 will receive is an expense paid trip to the national finals in Las Vegas, a Personal Image Development Course, a Modeling Course and a Pageant Preparation Course. (Other prizes to be announced later.)

For an application or additional information, write Doris McDonald-Modjeski, 5330 N. State St., Lot 139, Jackson, Ms., 39206 or phone 981-5167. Serving as state director for the 1983 Pageant, Mrs. Modjeski was Mrs. Mississippi of 1980. The currently reigning Mrs. Mississippi is Betty Yow (Mrs. Walter Yow) of Petal, Miss.

Pageant entry deadline is Nov. 30, 1982.

Winners will appear on

No previous pageant experience or talent is required.

Entry fee is $50 and contestants may obtain a business sponsor to cover the tax-deductible fee, however, parents, friends or relatives may sponsor a girl.

Coast psychologist sees will power as non-existent

By DR. SUSANNAH ANDREWS
Will Power or Habit Control?

Will power has been the downfall of many a man or woman who has tried unsuccessfully to accomplish a seemingly straightforward task, such as weight control, good grades in school, or cessation of cigarette smoking.

What most people are not aware of is that "will power" does not exist.

What does exist is a self-image of one's ability or lack of ability to control one's own life.

The concept of "will power" has, in fact, done much to discourage and even block success in habit control.

If you stop and think about it, what is "will power" really?

Is it an inherited personality trait, passed on through the genes? Is it incorporated in the brain cells, blood cells, or muscle tissue? Is it a part of our spiritual being?

Most of us would be hard-pressed to come up with a clear definition of will power. This is probably because the true definition is subjective, and only exists in our minds.

Will power represents an image that we have of ourselves contrasted with images of others. Some of us "have it," and some of us do not. In believing this fantasy, we develop a picture of ourselves and tend to live up to it.

A patient walked into my office several months ago in order to lose weight with the help of psychotherapy and hypnosis.

One of the first things she said was, "I'm just like my father. I don't have any will power. Now, my mother and my sister have lots of will power. I just don't have any."

I asked her to define will power. She described it as some type of mysterious gift that God seems to bless upon some people. She felt terribly dejected and left out as a result of His having omitted her.

Or, was it perhaps because her mother did not take enough calcium or vitamin C during her pregnancy with her?

When it came right down to it, she had to admit that "will power" was quite subjective and difficult to define.

With some exploration, we discovered why she had identified with her father in this characteristic. She had been told that she was like her father.

She planted this picture of herself in her mind, and she convinced herself that she was unable to control various aspects of her life, just as her father had been unable to control his life.

Realizing that she had free choice and that she could do anything that she wanted to do was an important first step in controlling her weight, along with other aspects of her life. We are not locked into life:

we choose and create our lives. If we take responsibility, full responsibility, for our lives, then we must realize that we have the power to change those parts of ourselves that we do not like.

Just because we do not know how does not mean that there is no way.

Life's challenge is the problem solving of each new dilemma.

The concept of "will power," when we believe that we are lacking in it, only discourages our attempts at problem solving.

We are defeated before we even try. This is just one of many ways that we "hypnotize" ourselves into believing that we can or cannot accomplish some task or objective.

A more practical and realistic approach to controlling aspects of one's life comes from viewing each behavior as a learned habit. It is also often necessary to understand the symbolic value of the behavior: how did it begin, what needs did it serve and does it still, what self-image does it feed?

Critical to success, each behavior to be controlled or altered must also be dealt with as a learned habit.

A habit is a behavior pattern that has become ingrained as a result of repetition over time. We do many things without even thinking.

For those who smoke, reaching for a cigarette is often not a conscious action,

Mark Twain manuscript adapted for television

"Man...and what a shabby poor ridiculous thing he is, and how mistaken he is in his estimation of his character and powers and qualities and his place among the animals."

—Mark Twain, in a letter to William Dean Howells, 1899

Mark Twain's "The Mysterious Stranger" as published in 1916 and reprinted since then is an editorial fraud. Mark Twain attempted at least four versions of this satiric novel, none of which was published in his life time.

Six years after his death, his publishers combined Twain's incomplete first draft with portions of his finished last version and published it as "The Mysterious Stranger."

Characters were changed, added and deleted. Gone were references to late 19th century corruption. Twain's intended theme of the printing shop was completely omitted.

It was not until 1963, that a professor studying the manuscript at the University of California, Berkeley, discovered its deception. Half a century later the story as Mark Twain wanted it to be read, has been published by the University of California Press.

The real "Mysterious Stranger" was adapted by Julian Mitchell for the Great Performances presentation, the 90-minute film, which airs on Monday, Oct. 11, 8-9:30 p.m. stars Chris Makepeace, Lance Kerwin and Fred Gwynne.

Shot on location in the Austrian Alps, "The Mysterious Stranger" is made possible by major funding from the National Endowment for the Humanities, with additional funding from the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation and Exxon.

Indeed, even the young stranger's odd name, 44, is a concoction straight out of his youth: In Hannibal, Twain knew a set of twins with the last name of Leven. To his thinking, "leven and 'leven made twenty-two and when that was doubled (for twins), Twain hit upon his "magic number," 44.

Just as Twain (then Sam Clemens) was a printer's apprentice, so too are the youthful heroes of "The Mysterious Stranger."

Twain's respect for the printed word was evident, as expounded by "The Mysterious Stranger's" print-shop owner, Herr Stein (Bernhard Wicki). "Now my boy — if you want to be one of us, you have to remember that printing is an art — a noble and ancient art. The Great Gutenberg did more than any other man to make the modern world."

In "The Mysterious Stranger," Twain glides from dream to reality, from the magical to the mundane. At one moment, 44 (Lance Kerwin) instructs his friend August (Chris Makepeace) in the hardest lesson of all — "Life itself is a dream. God, man, the sun and moon and stars — it's all a dream," and at another is a prankster fresh out of Huck Finn, delighting his pal with taste treats centuries away from discovery: "Fried spring chicken — milk-and-flour gravy from Alabama. Try it, August, and grieve for the angels, 'cause they ain't got it!"

John S. Tuckey, in his foreword to the newly-published, unedited edition of "The Mysterious Stranger," concludes that the story is "a psychic adventure, a journey into the deeper mind and beyond...into the realm of the unconscious and of dream experiences and on at last to that appalling void which one must brave in order to become whole."

Produced by William Perry and directed by Peter H. Hunt,

"The Mysterious Stranger" is a co-production of the Nebraska ETV Network and The Great Amwell Company in association with WNET/THIRTEEN, New York.

"They Mysterious

Stranger" is third in a series of Mark Twain specials produced for public television. It was preceded by the award-winning productions of "Life on the Mississippi" and "The Private History of a Campaign That Failed," a recent recipient of the coveted Peabody Award.

A fourth production, "The Innocents Abroad," was filmed in Italy, France, Egypt and Greece this past summer and is scheduled to air on public television in the spring of 1983.

MORE MARK TWAIN—An adaptation of Mark Twain's last novel, "The Mysterious Stranger," will be presented on "Great Performances" at 8 p.m., Monday, Oct. 11, on the Mississippi ETV Network. Starring in the 90-minute film, shot on location in Austria, are Fred Gwynne, foreground, Chris Makepeace, left, and Lance Kerwin.

TIMBERLINE

By Rand Riedrich
Hancock County Forester

Dear reader you'd better hurry and get that firewood ready for this coming winter. Some of the experts are saying it's going to arrive early this year. How do you get it ready? Here's what a recent issue of Wood 'n' Energy had to say about it:

Prepare the wood supply — the cutting, splitting, stacking and all the hauling that takes place between the stump and the stove — is a big job. Considering the effort involved in working up a cord wood pile, you'll certainly want to get the most heating benefit possible out of it. You can do this by properly seasoning your fuelwood.

A freshly cut tree has a moisture content of about 50 percent, which is a fancy way of saying that one-half the weight of that log you're carrying is water. This adds up to more than a half ton, or 150 gallons, of water per cord.

Before the combustible components in a log will burn, all the moisture in the wood must first be converted to water vapor and then driven up the chimney flue — using heat that might otherwise have been put to better use warming your home.

This moisture condenses in the chimney, leading to creosote problems while lowering the firebox temperature to a point where it can no longer support full-efficiency secondary combustion. This squanders the heat potential of the fuel. This is why it is best to avoid burning green wood whenever possible.

Outdoors, wood dries fastest when the moisture content in the air is lowest; that is, usually between October and May. Wood cut in the autumn, therefore, will be well-seasoned by the onset of the following year's winter heating season. After 12 months of seasoning, the moisture content of air-dried wood is likely to have dropped to about 20 percent — the driest it will probably get without kiln or oven-drying the wood, and quite suitable for burning.

Birch and other light hardwoods will season in a shorter time, perhaps four to six months, while large, unsplit chunks of oak and elm may require longer drying times.

The shorter the piece of wood and the more of its surface area exposed to the air, the faster it will dry. The fastest way to dry wood, therefore, is to split all logs greater than six inches in diameter and cut all the sticks into stove-sized lengths immediately after felling the tree.

The location of your cordwood pile will greatly affect the drying process, so select the spot wisely.

You will want the woodpile handy to your house or wood storage area, of course, but you should also select an open space free of brush and tall grass and away from large bodies of water in order to provide for good circulation of dry air. Orient the piles so the prevailing winds will blow through the spaces between the sticks, and leave two-foot to four-foot alleyways between the faces of parallel cordwood piles.

Be sure to have your firewood stacked in full sunlight in order to take advantage of the drying rays. (Remember, the sun swings across the Southern horizon in the Fall and Winter months).

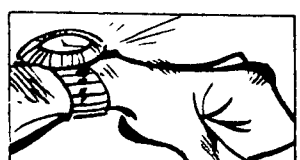

Before you begin building the cordwood pile, lay down two, four-to-eight-inch diameter logs or old lumber rails under each stack to keep the firewood off the ground.

This not only allows good air circulation, it also prevents the wood from reabsorbing moisture from the earth, and eventually rotting.

Stack the wood loosely, mixing split logs with whole ones, crooked and straight sticks, creating spaces that allow air to move freely through the pile. Be sure to stack all split pieces with the bark facing up, to take advantage of the tree's own waterproof covering for keeping the wood dry.

Fully seasoned, ready-to-burn firewood will feel much lighter than a similar-sized green log, and will make a resonating sound — rather than a dull thud — when it is dropped on another hard object. Dry firewood also has darkened ends, with radial cracks running through them.

Regardless of the way you season your firewood, don't rush the drying process. Good firewood improves with age. Next week we'll have some suggestions for using firewood harvests to improve your timberlands productivity.

Brown & Root's Open Shop Policy: It's Been Working For Mississippi For Four Decades.

Since the 1940s, Brown & Root has been a working partner with the industries which have brought to Mississippi industrial strength and individual prosperity: oil and gas exploration and production, refining, petrochemicals, energy generation.

In all, we have performed billions of dollars of construction in Mississippi. In doing so, we have had the help of tens of thousands of Mississippi Brownbuilders. Through their payrolls, subcontracts with Mississippi businesses and purchases of materials from Mississippi firms, the vast majority of those billions of construction dollars have remained in Mississippi.

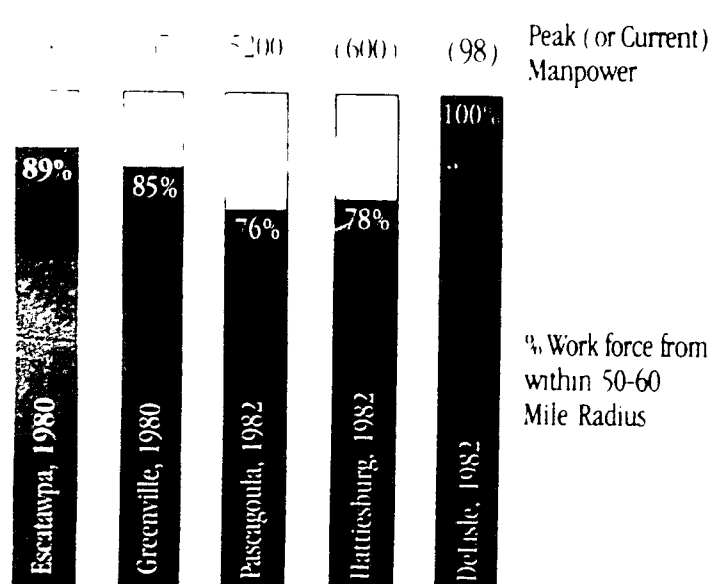

From the beginning, as now, Brown & Root has adhered to an open shop policy. This means simply that no one is required to join any organization, pay any dues or depend on the favor of anyone for the right to work for Brown & Root. It also means that employees have the opportunity to advance through aptitude, on-the-job training, demonstrated ability and individual merit. Thousands of Mississippians have risen to supervisory and management positions with Brown & Root in these ways. Each of them is proud one of the best.

Local Hiring Preference

Brown & Root makes it a policy to hire as many people as possible in the immediate area of a jobsite—typically within 50 miles radius, or reasonable daily commuting distance.

As this policy a reality, we regularly open a personnel office in the community nearest the jobsite. All project hiring is handled through this office, in contrast to the practice of having all employment controlled through a big recruiting hall. Records on project after project show that our policy results in more than three out of four Brown & Root jobs going to local people. Shown below are employment figures for several recent and current projects.

Recent Brown & Root Projects in Mississippi

Local Purchases, Subcontracts

Construction projects of hundreds of millions of dollars require large amounts of materials which are usually available near the jobsite. These include: Lumber, Concrete, Clam Shells and Structural Fill.

Other local businesses from which we make major purchases are construction equipment dealers, auto dealers, parts suppliers, office equipment and business machine dealers.

Brown & Root also employs the services of other contractors and related firms for such work as: Earth Moving, Hauling, Pile Driving, Building Construction, Soil and Materials Testing and Security Services.

Local, County, State Taxes

Construction is a major source of tax revenues. On Brown & Root projects employing two, three, four thousand or more people, state income taxes—deducted before paychecks are issued—amount to tens of thousands of dollars per month.

State and local sales taxes generated by Brown & Root payrolls are another important contribution to state and local governments, as are special taxes such as those on gasoline and tobacco.

Experience on many projects shows that 95% of Brown & Root paychecks are cashed within 50 miles of the jobsite on which they were issued, confirming the localized benefits of spending and taxes.

In addition, Brown & Root itself, is a major state taxpayer.

Open Shop, Open Opportunity

As an open shop company, Brown & Root affords a number of special benefits to communities in which we work.

We believe in the spirit as well as the letter of equal employment opportunity.

- We offer local people at all skill levels an opportunity to work in the various crafts with locally competitive wages and good benefits.
 - We offer them the training and opportunity to advance to higher levels as they demonstrate proficiency at their work.
 - We also offer everyone the opportunity to advance to supervisory positions, based on individual ability and merit.
- We have found that these practices result in higher motivation among our employees, leading to higher productivity on the job and a higher quality of work and supervision.

They also result in long-range benefits as local people become better trained, more secure for the future and assets to the community in attracting new business and industry.

Brown & Root in Mississippi

Brown & Root has worked successfully and productively in Mississippi for many years.

Our Oilfield Services Division has been providing vital support to oil and gas exploration and production operations in Mississippi for more than 40 years, including site preparation, maintenance and the building of board roads through marsh and timberland.

We have worked on natural gas pipelines throughout the state; helped convert the famous "Little Big Inch" line, which carried oil and gas to the eastern seaboard during World War II, into a privately-owned gas transmission system; and constructed many of the compressor stations which line the system from near McComb to the northeast corner of the state.

We constructed a single-track railroad bridge more than 10,000 feet across Bay St. Louis.

Our maintenance crews have been working in the Purvis area since the 1950s at one major chemical plant and are performing similar work at another near DeLisle.

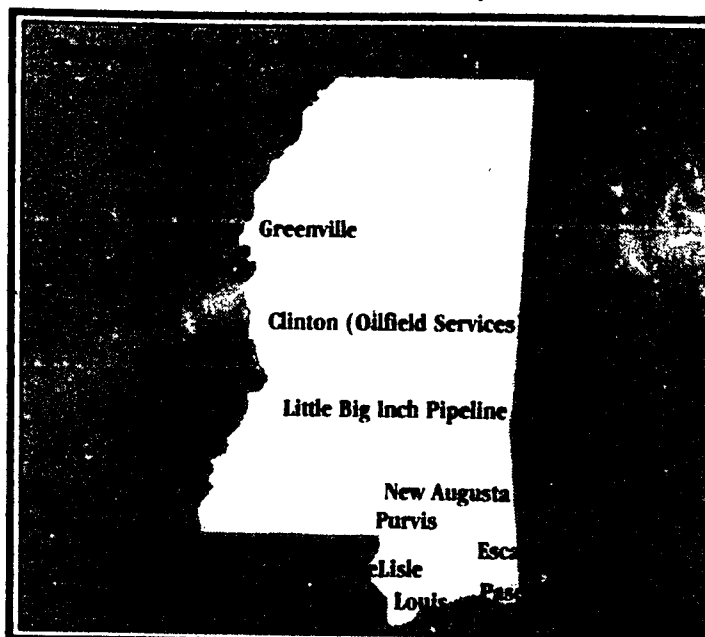

Our specialized power maintenance group has long served electric utility companies with scheduled and emergency maintenance and repair. These operations require expertise, experience and execution abilities to maintain adequate, uninterrupted power supplies to individual, business and industrial users.

In the Greenville area, Brown & Root has been at work for a number of years on various projects for several clients. One of these is a food processing plant while another involves a felted-mineral fiber facility.

On and near the Gulf Coast, Brownbuilders recently finished construction of a major new electric generating facility near Escatawpa to help meet the demands of Gulf Coast industrial, commercial and residential development.

In Pascagoula, we are changing the face, the shape and the capabilities of Chevron's sprawling refinery in a massive project employing some 5000 Brownbuilders.

And today, in New Augusta, we are building a new grass-roots pulp mill which will create new business and job opportunities in the state's forest industry.

A Mississippi Tradition

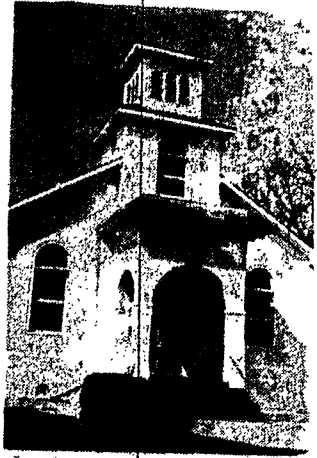

There are few places in the country where Brown & Root has worked for so long and on so many and diverse a range of projects as in Mississippi.

We are very pleased to be continuing this tradition and pledge that we will, in every way possible, share the economic benefits of our work with people, communities, counties and the state through our payrolls, purchases, subcontracts and resulting retail sales, bank and savings deposits and taxes to support every level of government.

LOST CONTROL

Q. I've got this boyfriend who acts like a baby. We got engaged a few months ago. We have been fighting all the time lately, and he has really hurt me a lot.

A. But I can't let go of him. I am 16 and he is 19. I think I should make my own decisions, but he makes them for me. I don't know how to control my life. He has taken total control of it. I don't even have friends anymore. How should I handle this?

A. Never let anyone take total control of your life. When this happens it can be extremely destructive of your personality. You had better let go of this boyfriend, for if you fight all the time now, marriage would likely be a failure.

If you want a happy life, you better look for a young man who really respects and cares for you. Get some new friends and make the best of these important years of your life.

We are sending you our booklet 12 Steps to a Happy Successful Life which may be of help to you. Any reader wishing a free copy may write to us at Box 500, Pawling, N.Y. 12564.

HEADING FOR TROUBLE

Q. I am 63 years old, and my oldest daughter lives about 100 feet from us. Her oldest child (14 years) steals anything she can get her hands on. We've tried to talk to her and she acts as if we are lunatics.

In my opinion my daughter should make her take the things back, or she should escort her as she does. But instead she believes everything this girl says.

I don't want to see our granddaughter in trouble, but as sure as I'm writing this letter, I know it will happen. Our advice just goes in one ear and out the other. What do you say we should do?

A. This little thief will have to learn the hard way not to take what doesn't belong to her, which could mean jail unless the mother wises up to what her glib daughter is doing.

The key person in this dangerous situation is an incompetent mother. Since she is an adult, continue to lovingly but firmly reason with her rather than the child who probably has the more adolescent attitude that she is smarter than older folks.

Some professional counseling for both your daughter and granddaughter would be advisable.

If there is something you would like to ask Dr. and Mrs. Peale, write to them at Box 500, Pawling, N.Y. 12564.

She is blamed

Q. My baby daughter is 30 years old and is a very lovely person. She has been married 13 years and has 2 children. Her husband did not help with the children or do things around the house like a husband and father should. I think she went overboard in trying to please him. He was a very spoiled person. They separated about 3 months ago.

My son-in-law is very bitter toward me. He ran me out of his home just before the separation. He blames me for my daughter being the person she is. I don't know what to do about him not speaking to me. I have never interfered with their marriage. Please tell me if I should call him or see him in person and talk this thing over. I am crushed over this whole situation.

A. It is always right to do all within one's power to improve a relationship. Therefore, I believe you should make an attempt to see your son-in-law and do what you can to have an understanding. If he should not respond leave the matter of a later personal talk open. He may change his mind at some future time. When you have done what you can, put the matter in God's hands.

If there is something you would like to ask Dr. and Mrs. Peale, write to them at Box 500, Pawling, N.Y. 12564.

CREATIVITY EYED

Creativity is the focus of three new programs beginning this week on Mississippi ETV.

"Writer's Workshop," featuring 15 successful writers; a documentary on the surrealist movement in the arts; and a documentary on the creation of a comic strip will be telecast.

"Writer's Workshop" is a series of 15 half-hour programs each featuring one writer. The guest list includes Kurt Vonnegut, Nora Ephron, Tom Wolfe, Pauline Kael, John Irving, James Dickey, Susan Sontag, James Alan McPherson and William Styron. George Plimpton is the host.

In each program, one featured writer — Kurt Vonnegut in the first program at 4:30 p.m., Sunday, Oct. 3 — responds to questions from University of South Carolina writers-in-residence William Price Fox and James Dickey and their students.

In the process, the writers reveal not only why they write but also how, offering tips on such subjects as how to get published, how to deal with "writer's block," how to conduct an interview and where to look for "inspiration."

"Pursuit of the Marvelous" at 9:30 p.m., Monday, Oct. 4, is a film on the movement synthesizing the intellectual, historical and creative factors that resulted in surrealism in painting, literature, theater, photography and cinema.

"Just Coffee, Toast & John Darling" at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, Oct. 5, is a half-hour documentary focusing on the creative efforts that go into producing "John Darling," a successful daily and Sunday comic strip.

The program follows the comic strip as it is scripted in Cleveland, drawn in

THE ABUNDANT LIFE

"I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly." — John 10:10

By Shawn Murphy

So many of life's little setbacks often become emotionally crippling experiences for us simply because we lose 'perspective.' Perspective, I am convinced, is the fine art of keeping molehills the size of molehills and mountains the size of mountains!

The following story sheds valuable light on the idea of keeping things in 'perspective.'

A politician was enraged

when he read what he regarded as a slanderous attack on his character and competence.

But one of his advisors urged him to calm down and consider the question analytically. "Bear in mind," he said, "there are 20,000 people in this town. One half of them don't get this paper. That leaves 10,000. One half of those who get the paper didn't see the story. That leaves 5,000. One half of those who saw it, don't believe it. That leaves 2,500. One-half of those who believe it, don't know you. That leaves 1,250. One-half of those who know you don't know your friends. That leaves 625. One-half of those felt that way about you before they read the story. So there is really nothing to get excited about!"

Next time life hands you what would be a setback to most folks, take a few moments to ask the Lord to help you put the situation in its true perspective.

And then relax, realize who you are, and if you are a child of God enjoy the abundant peace that comes from having Jesus Christ as your Lord and Savior!

Q. I am an attractive 17-year-old girl. I've been seeing this boy but he is away at college, and we agreed to see other people. He's been out with other girls, but I haven't been seeing any other boys. Most of the guys I want to go out with know about my boyfriend at college, and they won't go out with me. How could I get one of these guys to date me? Or should I even go out with any of these guys?

A. Your letter raises the curious question why the feminist movement's idea that a girl can ask a boy for a date hasn't caught on. Actually there are shy and lonely boys, too.

Of course, to be logical, this idea would mean that you would be taking a boy out. But we think it would be even better if you, in a subtle but friendly manner, encourage a lonely boy to ask you for a date. This policy is, perhaps, worth thinking about, for it is up to you to let others know you are available.

WHAT ABOUT THE RIGHTS OF VICTIMS?

When a thief breaks into your home and robs you or destroys your property, you suffer a real loss.

When he's caught and convicted, the criminal may be sent to jail to pay his debt to society. But what about his debt to you?

Who pays to fix your house? Who pays to replace your valuables?

It just doesn't seem fair that you or your insurance company should have to pay. Especially when the guilty person has already been caught and convicted.

Make The Criminals Pay.

Why not make the convicted criminal pay for the damage he did?

You can. That's what victim restitution is all about. It's a law recently passed by the Mississippi Legislature.

But long before it became part of the law, James Thomas was working to make victim restitution a vital part of our criminal justice system.

They'll Think Twice Before They Act.

"Equal protection under the law is the foundation of our democracy. But sometimes it seems like criminals are more equal than their victims."

"I feel that a criminal should have to pay for any damage he's caused his victims. As Assistant District Attorney, I've routinely recommended that restitution be made a part of the sentencing of criminals."

"As Judge, I'll administer justice fairly, firmly and impartially. So criminals will think twice before they act."

He Has The Experience We Need.

James Thomas has spent his career in the judicial system of Harrison, Hancock and Stone Counties.

He grew up in South Mississippi, the son of Christine Thomas and the late L. E. "Tommy" Thomas of Gulfport.

After graduating from U.S.M., he earned a law degree from Ole Miss and went to work as a lawyer in private practice.

Now he lives in Biloxi with his wife Sue, a Biloxi schoolteacher, and their 3-year-old daughter Tiffany.

He's In Touch With The People.

As Assistant District Attorney, he's worked for all the people in Harrison, Hancock and Stone Counties for nearly a decade.

He's prosecuted hundreds of cases in the very courtroom he'll preside over as judge.

He knows the law. He knows how our Circuit Court works. And he's in touch with the people he serves.

On November 2nd, let's elect James Thomas, Circuit Court Judge.

State Fair at Jackson to feature 4H animals

4-H members from all over the state will be converging in Jackson at the state fairgrounds Oct. 8-17 for the annual Mississippi State Fair.

"The 1982 State Fair looks to be the biggest event ever and serves as a showcase for livestock raised and managed by junior livestock members throughout Mississippi's 82 counties," said Joe Baker, a livestock specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

Baker noted that the livestock project enrollment is one of the largest in the 4-H Club program and the State Fair will be a crowning event for these boys and girls.

Fair time means different things to different people, but to a 4-H member who is planning to exhibit an animal, it is a time of hard work, both during the weeks just prior to the Fair and during fair week.

"During this time youngsters will be busy feeding, training, fitting and grooming animals," Baker said. "It's a busy time for the 4-H'ers, parents and leaders."

Last year more than 850 animals were exhibited by 4-H and Future Farmers of America members in the livestock shows at the fair. Baker is expecting this year's shows to be just as large.

Mississippi youth have gained valuable skills, patience, and understanding of hard work and sportsmanship in preparation for the State Fair," Baker said. "We encourage everyone to come see the results of the junior livestock projects."

Show days include:
Saturday, Oct. 9 - Junior Steer Show - 6 p.m.
Sunday, Oct. 10 - Junior Market Lamb Show - 1 p.m.
Monday, Oct. 11 - Junior Beef Show - 8:30 a.m.
Monday, Oct. 11 - Junior Swine Show - 3 p.m.

ETV Brief

BILOXI ARTIST

A new half-hour production by the Mississippi Center for Education Television on artist Dusti Bonge of Biloxi can be seen at 8 p.m., Wednesday, Oct. 6, on the ETV network.

Her works, many of them characterized by a bold, abstract style, have been shown at the Museum of Modern Art, Whitney Museum, Barnard College, Betty Parsons Gallery, Brooklyn Museum of Fine Arts and others in New York as well as in various local and regional shows.

In the program, "Dusti Bonge, The Life of an Artist," she talks about growing up in Biloxi, living in New York, meeting and marrying her late husband there, her brief acting career, the death of her husband and how all of these events influenced her work.

A zesty and vibrant woman in her late 70s, Dusti Bonge is shown walking the trail along the Tuxachaine River in south Mississippi with a friend, making her regular visit to a local Coast bank to water the plants, reading her poetry and working on a new painting, during which she tunes out the rest of the world by putting on a pair of headphones and listening to Bach on a cassette.

The program will be rebroadcast at 1 p.m., Sunday, Oct. 10. A book accompanies the program, and additional information about it may be obtained from University Press of Mississippi, 3825 Ridgewood Road, Jackson, MS

Also airing on Wednesday, Oct. 6, are encores of two other Mississippi ETV-produced specials. "Natchez" at 7:30 is a description of the life and times of the city as recalled by Natchezians themselves and others who have come to research the history of the town. At 8:30 is "The Islander," a documentary on the life of the late Ocean Springs artist Walter Anderson.

OLD NATCHES—Natchez of a former era comes to life as present-day Natchezians retell the history of their town in a special Mississippi ETV production. "Natchez" will be rebroadcast at 7:30 p.m., Wednesday, Oct. 6, on the Mississippi ETV Network. The program was first seen in March. Photo courtesy of the Norman Collection by Joan W. Gandy and Thomas H. Gandy.

BY DUSTI BONGE—Oftentimes artist Dusti Bonge gets ideas for her work from dreams. Pictured here is "Sunflower Deam No. 1," 1962, an oil on masonite work measuring 34" by 38". "Dusti Bonge, The Life of an Artist," a Mississippi ETV production, can be seen at 8 p.m., Wednesday, Oct. 6, on the Mississippi ETV Network. It will be rebroadcast at 1 p.m., Sunday, Oct. 10.

ETV Brief

NEW SEASON

Three new programs on ETV herald the coming new season on public television — "A Lincoln Center Special" honoring the 100th anniversary of Igor Stravinsky's birth, a new season of "Plein and the Pittsburg" and a one-hour documentary on the life of detective-turned-author Dashiell Hammett.

"A Lincoln Center Special" at 8 p.m., Monday, Oct. 4, will present performances of "Apollo" and "Orpheus" from the New York City Ballet's recent Stravinsky Centennial Celebration.

"Apollo," with music by Stravinsky and choreography by George Balanchine, will be danced by Peter Martins and Suzanne Farrell. "Orpheus," also composed by Stravinsky and choreographed by Balanchine, will be performed by Martins and Karin von Aroldingen.

Andre Previn opens a new season of "Plein and the Pittsburg" with a jazz session starring violinist Itzhak Perlman, drummer Shelly Manne, bassist Red Mitchell and guitarist Jim Hall.

"Perlman, Cool and Classic" can be seen at 9 p.m., Wednesday, Oct. 6.

"The Case of Dashiell Hammett" can be seen at 10 p.m., Wednesday, Oct. 6. The program traces the development of Hammett's career—his job as a Pinkerton detective, his struggle with tuberculosis, his life as a writer in San Francisco, his relationship with playwright Lillian Hellman, his successes and excesses in Hollywood, his enlightenment in the Army during World War II and his radical politics.

ABOUT EYE CARE

Lack of information, or misinformation, keeps many older people from seeking eye care — or even from mentioning vision problems. One way to close this knowledge gap is to write for information, for a free copy of the brochure "The Aging Eye."
